NVT Windows Securer has a very straightforward user interface. It is intended for the novice or even intermediate user, regardless of their technical experience. The system tray icon will display all of the enabled services, grouped into categories. Furthermore, the tool gives you a quick overview of the processes running, as well as their status and the risk level. The GUI of NVT Windows Securer is well-organized, and it also contains the context menu, which has an abundance of options. From the "More Tools" section, you can open the standard Windows Firewall, the Hosts manager, and the Service Manager. If you are unfamiliar with a particular service, then you can open its context menu and select its status, or edit its name, after viewing its name, status and risk level. NVT Windows Securer features an automatic update. After adding a required key, you can open its context menu and select to check for program updates online. The tool will never ask you to install any new components, and it is extremely light on CPU and system memory. The program may not work on all types of operating systems; it is compatible with Windows XP and later. The portable edition of NVT Windows Securer has the same capabilities as the full edition. It is intended for use on an offline computer and should install and run successfully. We found that the tool did not hang, crash or pop up error dialogs. Pros: + Includes a portable edition + Can be updated automatically + Easy to use + Works with multiple Windows systems + Cons: - Hasn't been updated for a long time - Disabled key may not be available in the portable edition Free Dynamic Directory Lock Pro is a powerful tool that lets you secure Windows operating systems, without the need for Administrator rights. We found this software to be very simple to use and highly customizable, especially for novice users. However, Free Dynamic Directory Lock Pro is not as feature-rich as some of the other programs we have reviewed. For instance, you cannot terminate any running processes or enable/disable Windows services. The interface is a standard window, and it is organized in a way that is consistent with Microsoft Windows. You will be prompted to input your credentials when you first run the program. If you are unfamiliar with a particular service, then you can open its context menu and select its status. However, Free Dynamic Directory Lock Pro has some interesting features, such as the possibility of choosing a different username 45cee15e9a
