It is the type of a malware program that is designed to make you pay a ransom in order to decrypt your files that are been encrypted by it. The Ransomware is a form of malware, threat, cyber attack that usually comes as a nasty surprise to victims when they want to access their vital and sensitive data files. However, this is not the first time that we're seeing online crooks using the virus to carry out cyber-attacks. It has been happening lately that the virus is being used by thieves to make unsuspecting users pay a ransom and then decrypt certain files inside their hard drives. This Virus is mostly associated with the users who are browsing without the protection of a Virus scanner program. It happens when one of your links directs the virus to your PC and the program automatically scans the content with its internal programs. If you are not using an antivirus program then you are most likely to fall prey to this virus and other malware. Ransomware is a variant of computer virus which has
