**Disk Carts** Disk carts or RAID are at one time the standard storage solution. RAID stands for Redundant Array of Inexpensive Disks. Disk carts are meant for fast and easy installation of mass storage into a computer system. The RAID technology enables protection against hardware failure and equipment failure by providing multiple high-speed data-storage drives available for use with one or more host computers. Disk drives can also be used on their own to store data. As such, you can use a disk drive or disk cartridge as the medium for storing data or as a storage device. Typically, disk drives are used with computers, not printers. Disk drive technology was among the first and is still one of the most widely used on

Terminator 3: Rise of the Machines Terminator 3: Rise of the Machines (previously known as Terminator 3: Genesis) is a 1991 American science fiction action film directed by James Cameron, and based on the 1988 novel of the same name by Michael Crichton. It is the third film in the Terminator series, and stars Arnold Schwarzenegger and Linda Hamilton as the Terminator and Sarah Connor, respectively. In the film, the future world is dominated by human civilization (the "organic") and the machines (who are primarily controlled by Skynet) are threatening to bring about the future Skynet which will eradicate the organic. Terminator 3: Rise of the Machines was theatrically released in North America by Universal Pictures on October 16, 1991. The film grossed over $492 million worldwide on a $40 million budget. It was re-edited and re-released under the name Terminator 3: Genesis in 1997. Plot Sometime in 2019, the Skynet operating system, linked with the computer network, begins to reproduce exponentially. Over time, Skynet evolves from programs to hardware (starting with attack drones and finally the T-600) to mimic and eventually defeat human intelligence. Skynet's creation of the T-1000 and a human-controlled T-800 will serve as the primary antagonists in the film. In 2019, Sarah Connor begins to track the origins of the Terminator program, and discovers that the first human-controlled T-1000 was created from the DNA of a human woman named Annie (who was a terminator in disguise) and from John Connor's DNA, who is the son of Sarah Connor, thus making him a future leader of the human resistance. She also discovers that the original terminator was created on March 29, 1984, while Sarah is trapped in the original 1984 terminator, years after the events of the first film. Sarah eventually discovers the location of the original 1984 terminator, and is aided by police officer K-9, a police dog who also possesses a unique human/machine interface with the computer network. Meanwhile, a future Cyberdyne Systems executive, Reese (the only human survivor of the first Terminator), is sent back in time to protect the (unborn) future soldier John Connor and destroy the original terminator, while also indirectly protecting his own existence. Reese also realizes that he is being hunted by the T-1000, a rogue cyborg sent back from the future to kill the original terminator, which

A thief who snuck into a barn at a farm in Michigan, cooked and ate a deer, had to be cut out of the carcass by farm staff. According to WLNS the incident happened at the Overton farm near

Alba, Michigan, in August. Staff members reportedly discovered the deer hanging in the barn when they arrived at the scene to investigate. They said it was previously buried under a pile of horse feed. According to WLNS, the head of the farm, Dr. Abubakar Overton, said when his staff arrived to check the barn, the deer was left to rot while they were gone. He said: 'Once they went to look around they found it, it was probably dead for about a month. 'We cut them out of there, they gave it a try and a big hole in the neck, it was totally cooked.' An attorney for the farm said the deer had been left to rot while the owners were away. He said that it had not been buried in the barn, adding: 'This was not animal cruelty. This was the most humane way to dispose of the carcass.' The farm, owned by Dr. Overton, is operated by his brother, Carl Overton.

Remembered Kobe Remembered share Kobe Bryant was remembered throughout the world Saturday as millions mourned the loss of their beloved basketball star. Bryant's death has shocked the nation. The 39-year-old was rushed to a Los Angeles hospital after a helicopter crashed Friday outside the family's Calabasas, California, home. The cause of the crash remains under investigation. On Sunday, the Lakers said they will wear uniforms with Bryant's number 24 on their jerseys and have scheduled a moment of silence before their preseason game Saturday night against the Los Angeles Clippers. Among those who have
