Vildagliptin is a dipeptidyl peptidase-4 (DPP-4) inhibitor that reduces fasting plasma glucose (FPG) by approximately 34% and hemoglobin A1c (HbA1c) by approximately 1% (FDA). The safety of vildagliptin, as well as that of related DPP-4 inhibitors, has been assessed in various controlled clinical trials for up to 1 year of treatment. In this post-approval observational study, the safety of vildagliptin was assessed from patients' medical records for a period of 12 years. The vildagliptin prescribing practice and database (Eisai Clinical Study Program) (2005-2017) were used to obtain data from 9933 patients. Safety analyses involved all patients with documented vildagliptin treatment during the 12-years post-approval period. Most patients (62%) were female; the mean age was 63 years (range 17-95 years). At the last observation, 26% of patients were receiving vildagliptin monotherapy; 26% were receiving concomitant metformin; and 34% were receiving other oral anti-hyperglycemia drugs, including sulfonylureas and insulin. From 2005 to 2017, the overall vildagliptin safety profile remained stable, with no new safety issues being identified. The most common adverse events were hypertriglyceridemia and hypoglycemia (13.4% each). The most common drug-related adverse events were hypertriglyceridemia and hypoglycemia (15.2% each). Serious adverse events included bronchitis, pneumonia, seizure, and cellulitis. The overall vildagliptin safety profile was consistent with that observed in controlled clinical trials.Q: How can I convert color space to 3da54e8ca3
