from the web or email address. At that point, a downloader is launched, which saves the data to the computer.

Then the user can select the destination, the add-on runs on the browser as a context menu. Using this mode, the user can also use a specific

URI address as a download source. The downloader adds the download to a queue, which is displayed in the application configuration panel. The link can also be added to the clipboard. All downloads are displayed in the queue: the file name, queue, size, progress and duration. The user can individually move, copy or delete a file in the queue. If a file in the queue is deleted, then the deletion is carried out for all other files. After a specified time, the program deletes all files in the queue.
