All you have to do is run the program and it will: 1. Locate your DVR-MS recordings and list them by title 2. Search thetvdb.com for titles that begin with the exact same show as the title of your DVR-MS recordings (so if you have a recording of NCIS, the program will search for that show, if you have a recording of "The Office", the program will search for that show). 3. If it finds a TV show match, it will move your recordings (and it does so properly by creating a new entry in your "Archive" folder) and rename the file using the common naming convention used by Media Browser for Windows Media Center. 4. If it cannot find a match, or if it cannot rename the file, it will produce a message to that effect and move on to the next recording. DVR-MS Renamer Quick Start Guide: Once you have downloaded and installed the utility, run it. It will start up and list all the recordings in the order they are stored in your "Archive" folder. All you have to do is find the title that contains the DVR-MS file you want to rename, and click on the highlighted title. If it finds a match, you'll see that the file is already being renamed (by the program) and moved into the folder it belongs (the folder named after the 'year' and 'month' in which you created the DVR-MS file). Here's a quick overview of the above steps: 1. You run the program 2. You look for the title that contains the DVR-MS file you want to rename 3. You click on the highlighted title and it will give you the option of renaming and moving it to your designated folder If you want to see the result of a single run of DVR-MS Renamer, just make sure you don't have any other Media Browser program running and click on the "Open" button.
