Yesterday was a big day in the NFL. At 9:02 AM the 2017 National Football League schedule was released, featuring the new rules

(referee changes) and the new schedule (combination of divisions and a 2 game, 7 game and 10 game playoff format). Here are some of the highlights: • The 2018 Super Bowl will be played on Feb. 3 in Atlanta, between the AFC champion New England Patriots and the NFC champion Los Angeles Rams. The Patriots became the first team in the modern era to reach the Super Bowl after losing the first-round bye, making their path from the Divisional round to the Super Bowl the most arduous in Super Bowl history. • Teams that are the first in their respective conference to win their division will play in the wild-card round, beginning with the Baltimore Ravens (AFC), Seattle Seahawks (NFC) on Jan. 4. • Wild-card teams will play two postseason games, and one of the four divisional champions will play in the conference championship game. The NFC champion will play the AFC champion in the Super Bowl. The teams will play one home game and one away game. • The Jacksonville Jaguars are the only team in the NFL to

----- Using the Windows keyboard it is possible to store and reuse keyboard macros. Macros are recorded keystrokes that, in addition to being stored, can also be reused to speed-up the procedure. The keystroke menu has the following options: -->Stored Keys: To record a single key stroke; -->Recording: To record multiple keystrokes (possible combinations); -->Save keystrokes as...: To save recorded macros to a file. ->Macro List: To edit or remove stored keys. -There are no limitations regarding the number of stored keys and macros in the list. -The macro list will be updated automatically by the program. -The keyboard shortcuts are edited and the list is re-arranged, using a special list. (see below) -Keyboard shortcuts can be assigned to any combination of keys and modifiers. -Currently not supported in another language. -The keyboard shortcuts are editable in order to fill in the list. -Assigning macros

(keystrokes) to keyboard shortcuts is possible, but not mandatory. -The macro list can be edited by pressing 'Edit'. -To assign a macro to a keyboard shortcut, click on the macro button, then choose from keyboard shortcuts that will be disabled. (Hint: Uncheck the option 'Can be assigned to a keyboard shortcut'.) -To assign macros to keyboard shortcuts, click on the macro button. ->Keyboard Modifiers: To assign modifiers to the assigned keystrokes. (Hint: use the modifiers before the assigned keystroke). ->Extra keys: To add a key to the macro shortcut list (Menu: Options: Keystrokes). ->Shortcuts: To configure the new list of keyboard shortcuts. ->Macro Recorder: To start recording macros. ->More Information: To get an overview of this feature. =====

A new, short, version of Microsoft's Surface Studio has been leaked that appears to share more of its design with its smaller cousin, the Surface Go. In its hardware announcement today, Microsoft suggested that its next generation Surface Studio would be a flexible work platform that catered for creativity and productivity. Microsoft Surface Studio 2 first look: Surface Pro X and Surface Go Pro to support similar design We now have our first full image of what the laptop-turned-tablet looks like. PCmag posted a photo online of the Surface Studio 2, suggesting the device was ready for its official unveiling at an event on October 2. The site shared a number of details about the new machine, including the size and its price, although it's still not clear if Microsoft will sell the new Surface Studio in Australia. In the photo above, you can see a number of similarities with the Surface Go, particularly in the screen area. The new machine also has a single USB-C connector instead of a USB-C and a DisplayPort port. The new Surface Studio will feature a 10.5-inch screen, and come with both a USB-C connector and a mini DisplayPort, allowing you to connect to your existing monitor or other displays that don't have USB-C. The base model of the Surface Studio 2 is priced at $3,399, while the top of the range models is priced at $3,799. It will be available to purchase in Australia from October 2.
