What's New In Drop Zone?

Drop Zone is a powerful tool for extracting and copying files to a dropzone. It extracts files, folders and ZIP archives from the Windows Explorer to the specified drop zone. Specify the drop zone with an address and all files and folders will be extracted to this address. Drop Zone has the following features: Drag and drop files Drop Zone can be added to the taskbar Configurable drop zones Windows Explorer integration You can read and execute files in the drop zone. Delete drop zones after usage Drop Zone is freeware and works in any recent Windows operating system, including Windows 10. Drop Zone is a lightweight tool for extracting or copying a group of files to the computer folder. It is basically a Windows Explorer replacement where you can perform multiple operations simultaneously. It starts with some minor visual glitches, but after you get to know how things work, it becomes quite useful. Design Drop Zone appears as an explorer with a preview bar. There are some buttons which look like shortcuts, but their functions are very different from that of a shortcut. When you drag a file or folder into the main window, it will be dropped to the address which is specified at the bottom. There is a possibility to open file in the window, or copy/paste them in an empty text document. You can also delete files from the drop window. You can configure the time range to which the drop zone will be on. By default it will stay on the open applications, or bookmarks for a period of three hours. If you want to disable it, you have to right-click on the address and deselect the option. It is not a system tray software, so you can't exit the program with it. You can drag files/folders to the drop zone using the task manager. The drop window can be minimized or maximized depending upon the way you set it. To do so, just press the "Maximize" button. The drop zone can be associated with multiple addresses. To do so, just add the addresses to the drop zone and deselect the "Don't move the window when I drag a file" option. The address cannot have any spaces, and can be 1 through 64 characters long. The address cannot contain or start with "/" or "\" characters.
