Kepard is an efficient and easy to use Virtual Private Network application, designed to enable you to browse the Internet under a variety of IP addresses, from various countries. The program is fairly simple to understand and work with. After launching it, you can change your IP at the single push of a button. Additionally, you have the option of selecting a preferred server location, as Kepard offers a series of distinct possibilities, namely USA, Sweden, Switzerland, France, United Kingdom, Canada, Netherlands or Germany. For each of the available server location, you are provided with a wide array of IP addresses to choose from, enabling you to connect from any part of the world you want. Kepard can launch at Windows startup, meaning that even if you forget about it, it will still be there, doing its job. Moreover, it runs minimized in the system tray, so it will not affect your regular activities, but you will still be able to use it whenever you need to switch your IP. This utility can prove quite useful, for instance when you want to watch online movies or even YouTube videos, that are simply blocked in your country, for no apparent reason. Kepard enables you to become anonymous on the Internet, permitting you to access any web page you want or watch your favorite movies and TV series. The tool supports several VPN protocols, specifically OpenVPN TCP, OpenVPN UDP, PPTP and L2TP, so you can work with the one your most prefer, and all the traffic is supposedly encrypted, in order to protect your privacy. To summarize, Kepard allows you to bypass regional restrictions in what concerns Internet freedom, letting you view and access the websites you want, regardless of your initial IP address, by providing you with a new and anonymous IP, that you can switch at any moment.
