Tithi Timer Hindu Calendar is a Java-based application that displays the Hindu calendar in a user-friendly environment. Installation is not a prerequisite, so you can just run the JAR file, provided that you have Java pre-installed. The interface of the tool is made from a standard window with an intuitive layout. All you have to do is specify the start and end month and year for the calendar, and click a button to get the Tithis. Details are displayed in the main application window, and they can be exported to a plain text document (TXT format) for further analysis. Plenty of preferences can be configured for Tithi Timer Hindu Calendar. For instance, you can switch to a different UI language and time zone, select another date format, as well as customize the font (e.g. style, size). Last but not least, you can view log details in a separate tab. Tithi Timer Hindu Calendar is pretty low-demanding when it comes to the CPU and system memory, so it shouldn't put a strain on the computer's overall performance. It has a good response time and contains a help file. We have not encountered any difficulties throughout our evaluation; the app did not hang, crash or pop up error dialogs. Thanks to its intuitive features and overall simplicity, Tithi Timer Hindu Calendar can be figured out even by users with no experience in software tools. Tithi Timer Hindu

In the first scenario, Tithi Timer is up to date. Therefore, it displays the current Tithi in the datetime display. Tithi Timer also changes to the month and year displayed in the date format. In the second scenario, the database has the tithi tomorrow and tomorrow and a current date for the tithi and the Mondays from this week. However, tithi timer is only one week ahead. Therefore, it displays only the current tithi, and there is a '!'. In the third scenario, Tithi Timer is not up to date, therefore it displays the current Tithi, the mondays from the current week, and the tithi tommorow and tomorrow. In the forth scenario, Tithi Timer is not up to date and not up to date. Therefore, it displays the current tithi, tithi tommorow and tomorrow, and the mondays from this week. Tithi Timer is up to date. Therefore, it displays the current Tithi and displays the mondays of the current week in the datetime display. It also changes to the month and year displayed in the date format. This example demonstrates how to use Tithi Timer and create a Tithi to display the current tithi, t
