An international study of psychological flexibility among patients with cancer. Psychological flexibility (PF) is a conceptual framework that is being increasingly used within psychotherapy research and clinical practice to understand and change maladaptive mal-conditioning beliefs that underpin psychological distress and disease. The aim of the current study was to develop and evaluate an interviewer-assisted language-version of a measure of PF for use in patients with cancer. The Patient Acceptance and Action Questionnaire-2 (PAQ-2) was modified into the Patient Acceptance and Action Questionnaire-3 (PAQ-3) and given to 70 patients with cancer to translate into Malay. Rasch analysis was used to evaluate unidimensionality and reliability of this version of the PAQ-3. Exploratory factor analysis was used to explore the structure of the PAQ-3 in this sample. Of interest to clinicians, the correlation between the PAQ-3 and the related measure, the Acceptance and Action Questionnaire-State Specific-2 (AAQ-2), was assessed in the study sample. A total of 20 items were retained in the Malay PAQ-3. The unidimensional structure of the PAQ-3 was confirmed in this sample, with all items loading on one factor. The intraclass correlation coefficient for test-retest reliability was 0.93. The correlation between PAQ-3 and AAQ-2 was 0.83. Further validation work will be required to assess psychometric properties of the PAQ-3. This is an important step towards the development of a PF measure that is widely applicable and includes in its assessment section a component relevant to decision-making with respect to intensive care.--TEST-- phar get-summary-info test#1 (3). --INI-- phar.require_hash=0 --SKIPIF--

Q: Display key-value pair in one line I have an array of key-values (in-memory array) like: let array = [ 'id': 1, 'name': 'John', 'city': 'London', 'country': 'England' ] I'd like to print all the key-values in a single line (without brackets) so that the above example will be displayed like: id=1,name=John,city=London,country=England Is there any nice way to achieve this? A: For node.js, you could use the map iterator to build a one-liner. var array = [ 'id': 1, 'name': 'John', 'city': 'London', 'country': 'England' ]; array.map(d=>'id='+d+',name='John+',city='London+',country='England'); console.log(array); For typescript, var array = [ 'id': 1, 'name': 'John', 'city': 'London', 'country': 'England' ]; Array.from(array) .map(([id,name,city,country]) => 'id='+id+',name='John+',city='London+',country='England+') .join(' ') .split(' ') .join(' '); console.log(array); Q: Angular.js: Iterate over 2 arrays I have this 2 arrays array1 = ['foo', 'bar', 'blah', 'blaa']; array2 = ['baz', 'bli', 'blah', 'blaa']; I need to get a unique sorted array (array1) of all the unique elements of the two arrays. My idea was to do this : Iterate over array1, for every unique value of array1, check array2 to see if it is present. If so then push
