What's New In DBSync For MySQL PostgreSQL?

DBSync for MySQL & PostgreSQL is a reliable software that enables you to copy, transfer or synchronize database entries between MySQL and PostgreSQL environments. The software can easily perform the file transfer from MySQL to PostgreSQL or vice versa, by selecting the desired source and destination. Establish a connection between two databases DBSync for MySQL & PostgreSQL works with both database services and creates a connection between them, in order to facilitate the data transfer. You may easily operate the changes you wish from MySQL to PostgreSQL or vice versa. The direction of the process can be set by choosing the desired source and destination. Once you selected the desired source, you need to enter the hostname, port, connection character set and the name of the database. The software can test the connection to a specific database, before moving on to the next step. The source and destination databases might support different types of characters, which is why the software allows you to select the correct character set. This ensures that the software properly displays the special symbols. Operate changes in two databases in real time DBSync for MySQL & PostgreSQL can display the full schema structure and tables of the source database. This way, you can select the exact information fields that you wish to copy from one database to another. Additionally, you may adjust the number of threads to be processed, as well as the action triggers and the symbols conversion. Moreover, the software enables you to indicate the type of transformation applied to global mapping settings. For instance, you may switch from VARCHAR type to CHAR, TEXT or BLOB. The application can organize the actions and data using command line parameters, or through the built-in scheduler, after you configure it. Useful tool for data transfer and synchronization DBSync for MySQL & PostgreSQL can automatically handle custom user settings from stored sessions and facilitates a quick database synchronization. The software enables you to select the exact data you wish to transfer, as well as the synchronizing conditions, such as conversion of special symbols. Moreover, you may schedule periodical actions to take place between the two databases, so the software can operate the data transfer automatically.
