Q: CMake using libraries built in NMake I'm trying to build my project using cmake. The project is built in Visual Studio 2013 with this build system. At the moment, it just depends on two standard libraries, opengl32.lib and opengl32_gl.lib. The library is built with NMAKE and installed in the directory C:\Program Files (x86)\Microsoft Visual Studio 12.0\VC\lib\x86_amd64. I have managed to make a CMakeLists.txt which should generate the right Makefiles to build my project. So far so good. But when I want to use the classes from the library, cmake throws the error: error LNK2019: unresolved external symbol _glapi_glXGetProcAddress@4 referenced in function "public: virtual void __thiscall GL::GLOpen() (?GLOpen@GL@@@UAE@XZ)" So what is the problem here? I thought maybe the linker cannot find the functions from the library since it is not an.lib but a.dll. If I want to use a.dll with cmake, I have to use the option "UseDynamicRTL". But as I'm building opengl, I need to use "UseStaticRTL". Here is my cmakefile: cmake_minimum_required(VERSION 3.10) project(testgl) set(CMAKE_CXX_FLAGS_RELEASE "/MT") set(CMAKE_CXX_FLAGS_DEBUG "/MTd") set(CMAKE_CXX_FLAGS "") set(CMAKE_CXX_FLAGS_RELEASE "${CMAKE_CXX_FLAGS_RELEASE}") set(CMAKE_CXX_FLAGS_DEBUG "${CMAKE_CXX_FLAGS_DEBUG}")
