This facility is, in some ways, even better than outgoing payments as the data can be tracked back to the original account. This is done by having another website which is created as a means of setting up an ongoing service. For your knowledge and interest, here are the links to the outgoing and incoming monitoring pages. Outgoing: Incoming: You can easily set up the outgoing monitoring service using the PayPal Merchant account you have already set up. Although the monitoring is not, at present, fully automated, we are working to make this possible. How does this
