Luna 02-06 12:25 PM Also talk to friends and relatives and just remember how strongly they feel about INS. If they are pressuring you to fly to India, do not call them again. Just say you will not go until your employer release a policy or something. I did that and it worked. Also explain to them that it is a purely voluntary program and you don't have to come in just like you don't have to come to the US. guest 08-08 05:55 PM Dude, I just came across this after 7 days of looking on here and on facebook and I just don't have the time to answer them all one by one. Well I'm serious. How do you get that exchange rate working. I see that on most websites, but I don't know how to convert it. Was planning on keeping it here for future use, but seems that would be a waste of time for me. I want to know how to access the exchange rate on my account so I can use it. Any suggestions? Thanks. (This is not my passport) kramase 01-16 04:08 PM when will you do a chart for illinois? The Illinois Chart GOPATHRI 08-18 12:58 AM @jaivarn- you don't need to file an I-485 alone. You can marry-into a US sponsor, pay 3,000 upfront and pay yearly fee of 300-400. That way you will have permanent GC and Sponsor takes care of you on your I-485. Need support? PM me. Good luck. Chet 01-31 06:50 AM All you have to do is prove you were eligible for the foreign education subsidy. They will mail you a letter with your eligibility information, and if you fulfill the conditions, they will be able to pay for your flight and any other expenses. You will be able to get away with 3-5 years of educational valid - so you need to get your degree and then go to a school that has its own exchange program. In the very unlikely event that USCIS approves your I-485 before the 3 years, and before they revoke your Schengen visa, you should be able to get away with the I-485 a second time (with a similar status to your first I-485).
