It is specifically for photographers and graphic designers who use Photoshop to edit images. There are many resources online for designers who use Photoshop to create vector graphics or as a means to retouch existing artwork. These resources are usually geared toward creating amazing designs rather than editing images. For these resources, you will find that Photoshop Elements is generally not suited to creating designs as it is focused more on editing and compositing images. An important difference between graphic designers and photographers is that graphic designers create vector graphics. They use Photoshop to edit their designs and add elements like drop shadows and textures. Photographers usually use Photoshop to edit their photos. Q: Redirecting a link from javascript within a HTML element I have a link on a page like so: link1 I need to be able to link to a new page based on a javascript change within the but i have not been able to get this to work. It says "document type mismatch". javascript: $("#summary").change(function () { window.location = "somepage.html" }); html: ... A: Your selectors are wrong. You need to find the select element first, and then find the #summary element within that. Try this: $("select#summary").change(function () { window.location = "somepage.html" }); one of the largest Muslim populations in Europe, Muslims in Germany belong to one of the oldest populations of the country. Muslims are not protected as a minority in Germany with regard to the legal protection of the rights of religious affiliation, marriage, family, freedom of movement, and education. Also, there are no restrictions on the teaching of religious doctrine. At the same time, many Muslims also complain about discrimination and the lack of respect shown to them. Integration is considered a challenge and some Muslims seem to lack trust in the German people, and have no desire to communicate with them. While there are a number of small mosques in Germany, there are no official Muslim places of worship. Muslims in Germany are entitled to welfare benefits and housing, as well as the right to vote, and are eligible for German citizenship. Muslims are not allowed to give their children Islamic names, and are required to have their children baptised and to register them at birth in non-Muslim churches. There is no restriction on the teaching of religious doctrines in public schools. All children are supposed to attend Christian services, and teachers are permitted to convert any student in their charge to Christianity. However, the level of religious instruction in this case needs to be approved by the German Federal Office for Migration and Refugees. Teachers are not allowed to allow students to practice any other religion. Teachers are however allowed to advise students on the practice of other religions, including Islam. The constitution does not give any national or religious priority to the state. Islam is allowed, but is not required or expressly

Cytoplasmic Degradation of Dcp1p in Neurospora. Dcp1p (DEAD box RNA helicase 1) is a ubiquitous, highly conserved, and essential protein that has been involved in multiple aspects of eukaryotic mRNA metabolism. Our previous study has revealed that the first deadenylase activity is to cleave the poly(A) tail from mRNA in Neurospora crassa. In this work, we observed that in N. crassa, as in yeast and human, cytoplasmic Dcp1p was degraded in a proteasome-dependent manner. Moreover, N. crassa dcp1 was found to be associated with ribosomes, which prompted us to investigate the function of dcp1. Although the dcp1 mutation caused slower growth and increased sensitivity to various stresses, dcp1 had no apparent effect on nuclear pre-mRNA splicing. The present study reveals a new function of dcp1 in the regulation of N. crassa cytoplasmic and translational activities. Q: Is the Euclidean geometry only compatible with the space dimension 4? What I know is that I can embed Euclidean geometry into the space of any dimension by using the orthogonal projection. What I don't know is if it is possible to extend the Euclidean geometry to the space of higher dimensions. A: An important aspect of the curvature of a metric space is the rank of its associated symmetric homogeneous tensor of order 2, i.e., the rank of  $\mathrm{Sym}^2 g$  which is the Ricci tensor in dimension 4. It is important to note that  $\mathrm{Sym}^2 g$  is a sectional curvature tensor, which is the conformal invariant of  $g$ . It says that if a 2-plane has curvature  $\lambda$  and an orthonormal basis is  $\{e_1, e_2\}$ , then, when  $\lambda$  is restricted to a plane parallel to  $e_1 \wedge e_2$ , it is of the form  $\mu \lambda$  for some  $\mu$  such that  $\mu_{11} + \mu_{22} = 2\lambda$  where  $\mu_{ij}$  denotes the  $\mu$  in the  $i$ -th
