News Rowley, RPA Golden Pipeline Sheldrake highlights water-quality tests Rowley, RPA Golden Pipeline Sheldrake highlights water-quality tests Tampa Bay's water suppliers are asking the public to report any illegal discharges of stormwater and wastewater into Tampa Bay. The "Golden Pipeline" project of Tampa Bay Water, Gulf Coast Water, Tampa Electric Co. and the US Army Corps of Engineers is looking for illegal discharges of stormwater and wastewater. In January, the area's water suppliers launched an "in-line" notice system to help with water quality in Tampa Bay. They're asking the public to send them any information on illegal discharges. "The Golden Pipeline's mission is to protect our bay," said Tampa Bay Water spokesman Tom Brill. "The more information we have, the better we'll be able to assess any impacts to our area's water. Illegal discharges contaminate our bay in many ways, including discharging stormwater, treated wastewater and raw sewage that's untreated, exceeding the daily loadings allowed from our sewage treatment plants. We are committed to working with our stakeholders to find solutions so the bay can remain a clean and fishable resource for the future." On Jan. 23, the Golden Pipeline team was among several water suppliers from the southern region to attend a water quality conference in Tampa. They were met with residents from Osceola and Marion counties, who said they're concerned about the impact illegal discharges are having on their watersheds. Water quality along the West Coast is being impacted by large discharges from Washington and Oregon, which are causing water pollution and negative effects to wildlife. "One of the biggest concerns on the West Coast is that if you have an event that creates a lot of runoff, whether it's from a rain event or a runoff that comes from agricultural runoff, then you're creating a lot of contaminant loads," said Andy Isenberg, manager of the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission's Everglades and West Coast division. "You have a lot of rivers to back up, not only to the rivers but to Lake Okeechobee, which is where a lot of our bay water flows." Isenberg said the impacts come in the form of sediment, nutrients, fecal coliform and pathogens

Another powerful tool is the Zoom Tool, which allows you to magnify or contract an image's thumbnail. The Marquee tool is used to select and crop an image. Fonts are a very important part of graphic design because they contribute to the look and feel of your design. From cursive to script, decorative to calligraphic and many other styles are available. The Pen Tool is perhaps the most popular feature of Photoshop. It allows you to create vector-based graphics, like paths, shapes, bezier curves, splines, and so on. [b]Did You Know?[/b] You can combine Photoshop features to create the look you want. For example, you can apply a Paint Bucket, Dodge and Burn tools and a brush all at once. EeroSaari 08-05-2008, 10:15 PM For me the best thing in Photoshop is the ability to play with stuff, experiment, play! Basically I want the best result with the minimum of effort and most of the time I have the best results, even the ones that don't look that great. Doomtech 08-06-2008, 12:08 AM I think the best way to see how something works is to go ahead and play with it, be it design or Photoshop. Experimentation is what makes Photoshop great - I don't know how it would be without it! EeroSaari 08-06-2008, 12:59 AM LOL, I would never say that. This is how I would use Photoshop, but I just like to learn, experiment and use the basic functions. Just like you I don't like to spend ages fiddling with stuff if there are a million other things I could be doing. Doomtech 08-06-2008, 01:26 AM You seem to have that backwards :) It would be a very boring thing to design something if you were stuck with a set of hard and fast rules. A few years ago I had a client that hated the use of hand-drawn sketches, everything had to be done using software programs. It never occurred to me that it would be a bit of a challenge and when we tried it out for real we were completely amazed at what we got. nikonayo 08-06-2008, 01:45 AM Photoshop is a tool, a place to
