How to watch Episodes Eight years after his breakout, Moulton's status as an MTV VJ starts to wane, though this year it is seen to be replaced by a new host, Will. At the same time, Moulton is viewed as something of a light-hearted goofball. For the upcoming MTV Spring Break in 2018, Moulton will no longer be the weekly host and will instead be replaced by Will duJour. While this could be seen as a demotion, in his first few years at MTV Moulton was involved in a lot of other roles, including hosting his own show. Moulton was seen as the energetic and joyous TV personality who brought fun to the MTV family. His tenure as MTV VJ was interrupted by several temporary replacements throughout the years, the most recent of which was Gabi Gregg. Moulton took a break from hosting MTV and returned to MTV in 2007, when he hosted The Moulton Show on MTV2. The show featured, and later, in the words of Bret Easton Ellis, "explored the ins and outs of being the best people on the planet." There was a sense of fearlessness and fun, but also a sense of gravitas and even a sense of meaning. The show was more serious than MTV's previous shows. In 2008, Moulton was also involved with the election season coverage on MTV and hosted shows that included An American Election, MTV World Stage: the Nasty Show, The Swamp and Election Defense Countdown. By 2010, he was appearing on Still Standing and inspired Courtney. It was that year when Moulton was let go from MTV. Shortly before that, he appeared in the film Superbad, which featured Sia and Nat Cacks of The Gigolos. Superbad featured a song called 'Michela.' The theme was a song of his life, which was the basis of the film. The theme was the events from 1996 to 1999, when he was working for MTV, and the drama of the time. It ended with him playing a musician who fought bullies but ended up having an affair with a teacher and his teacher having a child with his partner. This is The Moulton Show. He said: 'We are the only show. It's the only place you can tell me

What's New In?

Whipsaw: OSU's first win could be long-term goal "The way the game was going, we needed a little something to spark us and give us that confidence to go on and win our last two and get us ready to play for the rest of the season," said senior linebacker John Abadie. The time for the spark was finally here. After playing through three quarters of a 17-point deficit Saturday night and entering the fourth trailing by the same margin, the No. 13-ranked Ohio State Buckeyes finally took control of the Beaver Stadium rivalry in front of a crowd of over 45,000. "I think that that was the game where we knew we could win the game," said Ohio State senior center Andrew Norwell. "It was getting down to the four quarter and the game was getting away from us. We knew we had to do something and we just had to finish and we knew that if we went out and did what we had to do in the last two minutes of the game, we would come away with the win." A game that began with Ohio State taking a 48-7 lead was down to a 49-48 contest with 12:00 left to play, and after a Beaver fumble gave the ball back to the Buckeyes, quarterback Braxton Miller's pass over the middle found freshman receivers Evan Spencer in the end zone for a 49-yard touchdown that extended OSU's lead to 51-48. "I think it was just the way we played," said senior wide receiver Devin Smith. "Everybody played well, everybody helped out. Braxton made a great throw; he's been making great throws all year. [Anthony] Drake is making great catches. The offensive line gives him great protection, and he's just doing a good job of just getting the ball where the ball needs to go and making great throws. It's just coming together." While the experience of the Buckeyes' veterans helped to elevate the game to its final few minutes, the game plan changed and moved away from the rushing game with the Beaver Stadium crowd loud and amped up. "I think that when you're battling like that, like when you need that four or five point game to win a game, it's a little more up in the air," said
