Bean staging The term bean staging refers to the practice of embedding carbon fiber filaments in polyurethane, giving the material a greater resistance to compression. The net effect of this is that it gives the finished material greater flexibility. The material can be molded and then dried or it can be molded but not dried. Benefits This technique reduces the problem of mold lines. It also gives the finished product a smoother surface, so that it will not roll off your body when worn. It reduces the chances of an injury to the material when used as an athletic supporter. It reduces the chances of skin-penetrating injury. Deputy Prime Minister Dmitry Rogozin told a joint meeting of Russian and Iranian lawmakers that Russia is unlikely to withdraw its forces and military specialists from Syria. The officials met in the capital, Moscow, on Sunday. Speaking at the meeting, he said Moscow hoped that the joint package of assistance to Tehran would help stabilize the situation in the Middle East and contribute to the fight against Islamic State (IS, formerly ISIS/ISIL). He was referring to a $300 million military-technical package announced by Moscow and Tehran last month. “A stable situation in the region is of course the most important for all countries. The Russian-Iranian cooperation in Syria will contribute to this goal, and also in creating conditions for the development of the oil and gas industry in this strategically important country,” Rogozin said. He added that Russia was not interested in a “drift” toward a broad confrontation with Iran. Read more Washington, which is believed to have been behind the March attacks on two oil tankers off the United Arab Emirates, has for a long time sought to isolate Iran and force it to curb its regional activities. In November, Washington took its rhetoric up a notch and imposed fresh sanctions on Tehran. Russia has sided with Iran in the Middle East conflict, instead of backing the United States, in accordance with Moscow's "maximum pressure" policy. Q: Django with Caching I have a Django API used by a CMS, that is supposed to keep requests within 2 requests. If a request is longer than 2 requests it should be cached.

Currently the cache headers and settings are set to this:

CACHE_MIDDLEWARE_ALWAYS_ASK = True

```
CACHE_MIDDLEWARE_KEY_PREFIX = 'cachekey'

CACHE_MIDDLEWARE_SECONDS = 600

```
CACHE_MIDDLEWARE_SECURITY_KEY ='secure-key'

```
CACHES = { 'default': { 'BACKEND':
```

```
'django.core.cache.backends.locmem.LocMemCache',
```

'LOCATION': 'registration_v1_api', 'TIMEOUT': 60, } } My API has a decorator: from django.core.cache import cache @cache.no_cache def api_get(request, key): if key in request.COOKIES: key = request.COOKIES[key] return HttpResponse(json.dumps(request.values), content_type='application/json') The above is used by a function that looks like this: @cache.no_cache def api_get(view_func,): if CACHE_MIDDLEWARE_ALWAYS_ASK: # Always check the middleware cache. request_count = cache.get(key='api_get') print 'TOO_LONG_ITEM:', request_count if request_count > 5: # Check if request is over 2, set it to cache anyway. cache.set(key='api_get', request_count+1) #
