Instead of the existing black clouds floating on the sky in the game, players will have an opportunity to capture balloons and ride them, as reported by the website of the game. This unconventional feature is already present in the upcoming version of the game. According to the game designers of the new version, the players will be able to fly and drop the balloons to other players. The game is scheduled to be released in April 2019. In this game, players will be allowed to play other characters. The most interesting thing is that the players can play as themselves and fly their own balloons. Meanwhile, virtual balloons can be seen in the skies, where the gamers play. Under the name of Firing Range, the new version of the game will allow users to create their own character, b7e8fdf5c8
