In the year 1875, Thomas Edison invented the basic electric lamp and then in the year 1878, he opened the world of electrical industry. He designed the first electric light bulb. After this, he invented many other devices that are quite important for our daily lives. Being an inventor, Edison was used to making research and experiments, and for that, he conducted many experiments to get the best results. His invention is powerful and at the same time it looks sophisticated. Apart from being a mechanical engineer, Edison used electricity as a power source in many of his experiments. Today, using this method is quite easy and convenient. It is mostly being used in the offices, homes, schools and colleges. Also, we can use this method to light up the rooms which are not being normally lit by using the regular lamps.
