Types of Contemporary Exterior Doors

When it comes to contemporary exterior doors, there are several popular types to consider, each with its own unique features:

- French Doors: Known for their elegance, French doors consist of two hinged doors that open outward. They create a seamless transition between spaces and are ideal for patios or gardens.
- Pivot Doors: Pivot doors rotate on a pivot hinge rather than traditional side hinges, allowing for larger, more striking designs. They can serve as a bold statement piece in contemporary architecture.
